Her Home And Child

A popular actress has given up a successful vaudeville career for motherhood and the home.

"Don't let's talk about art," she said as she prepared for her final appearance. "What's compared to the home? I have a home and a baby. Applause is mine today; tomorrow it goes to somebody else. But my home and my baby are mine indeed, and they are the things worth while in life."

A wise head and a true heart. The woman who has a home and a baby has her career cut out for her by the Almighty.

She has the true gold, and can well afford to give up for it the glistering tinsel.

It must seem fine to a talented woman to be able to say the feelings of vast audiences with her song. But it must be infinitely finer for her to soothe her own little one to sleep with a lullaby.

Ripples and roars of applause must be sweet. But the lispings of a woman's own child must be immeasurably sweeter.

True there is a place on the stage and in business and in the professions for women. Hundreds of thousands of them in this country are making good in public life, as teachers, stenographers, nurses, clerks, actresses, doctors and even lawyers. And none would bar or hinder them. They are faithfully and efficiently performing noble service to humanity.

But few of them have homes and babies.

The woman who has these and properly cherishes them needs have no envy of her more strenuous and seemingly more brilliant sisters.

Here is the jewel of great price. She may think sometimes that life is dull and drudging. But so do the others, and she often preaches than she. So, alas, do all of us.

But if there is anything that, more than all else, lifts us in this life to true purposes, sets us in tune with the infinite, and gives us foretaste of heaven, it is that little corner in God's creation we call home.

The woman with a ribboned and scented dog hugged to her heart may imagine she knows love.

The woman living in the elegantly appointed hotel may think she knows luxury.

The woman in the childless mansion may think she knows wealth.

The woman who has no cares may think she knows happiness.

But the woman in her own home with her own child at her breast, knows all these, and knows them better than all others do.

The home may be humble, but it is her home.

The child may be a care, but it is her child.

And in all these ages since woman was created for motherhood, woman's nature has not changed in this respect one whit.

One of the greatest crimes possible against mankind is committed when a home is broken up by outside forces. Lives torn from accustomed moorings, and without chart or compass, are set adrift upon an unknown, cruel sea. The sea is black with rotting hulks broken in the sundering of family ties and the crushing of the holy influences of home.

Deer Farm For Wayne.

Bunnie Bates, of Wayne county, has established a deer farm at Steubenville. Forty acres of land has been fenced with a high wire netting, sufficiently high and strong to keep the animals from escaping. Four deer have been placed on the ranch. They are the black tail species and were secured from a game preserve in Wisconsin.

Field Seeds.

Field seeds at wholesale prices direct to the consumer. I have a full line of choice field seeds and can save you money on your Winter and Spring supply. Write to me for price list and samples.

In Real Estate, Stock and Crop Reports of Special Interest

At John B. Hargett's sale in Jessamine county sold at $3.50 in the crib.

V. A. Lear, of Garrard county, bought from 500 to 600 lambs at 6 1/2 to 7c.

R. King, of Lincoln county, bought 70 150-pound hogs in Casey county at 7 1/2 cents.

R. F. Henry, of Nicholas county, sold a five-year-old jack to S. T. Ishmael, of Kiowa, Kansas, for $1,100.

Ellas Smith, of Garrard, sold to Wilson Rogers, of Paint Lick, a pair of two-year-old mules for $400.

Luther Hamilton, of Clark county, sold for Morgan McKinney to a Pendleton county party a fine jack for $950.

Jesse Ford, of Woodford county, sold to Joseph Tindall a pair of extra fine three-year-old mare mules for $405.

B. P. Sield, of near North Middleton, bought this week from Stafford Bros., of Montgomery county, ten head of calves at 7 cents per pound.

There were about four hundred cattle on the Winchester market Monday and a great demand for all classes. All sold and prices ranged from 4 to 7 1/2 cents.

J. L. Hutchins sold to Granville Cecil 158 shoats averaging 98 pounds at 8 1/4 cents and to F. M. Hunt 50 100 pounders at same price. Danville Me seager.

James H. Ollis, of Montgomery county, sold to Matlack & Shipshure, of Winchester, the handsome chestnut stallion, Triple Chief, for a price reported at $2,500.

W. L. Graham, of Washington county, sold two jacks to S. C. Nunnally, of Lexington, one a two-year-old, standing 15 hands, the other a three-year-old, standing 16 hands high, for $1,300.

A big deal was consummated in Monticello in which Volger Bros. sold to former Senator Dick, of Ohio, for $80,000 all their oil interests, including a large number of fine producing wells in Wayne county.

H. O. Hurley, of Louisville, has had the misfortune to lose by death the sensational show mare, Jacquiline, by Rex Peavine, which he had been offered $25,000 for, and he bought of R. S. Seuder, of McKinney, but formerly of this county.

J. N. Camden's Derby candidate, Helios, the crack two-year-old of last season, was sent a half mile in 54 seconds at the Kentucky Association track last Thursday, doing it nicely. Jockey Byron Steele, who is to ride this season for the Camden stable, has reported for duty.

J. H. Yowell, of Hustonville, sold 40 eleven hundred-pound cattle to go in April at $7.50 and $1.00 on the head. They are silage fed. C. C. Carpenter, of the West End, sold 10 cattle to go in April, 1,200 lbs. at $3.00 per hundred.

J. W. Allen sold a small bunch of 650 pound yearlings steers at a fraction over 7 1/2 cents. Lambs selling for June delivery at 7 1/2 cents. Hogs high. Danville Advocate.

The Farmers Home Journal last week published a handsome photograph of Mr. Mat Cohen with the following comment: "Mat S. Cohen, the wizard of the 'pigskin' and Kentucky's premier showman. He has developed and exhibited many of the most noted saddle horses in recent years, including Kentucky's Choice, Edna May, Star McDonald, Princess Sonia and others. He now has in training at his home in Lexington, the heralded champion of the year, Mary Yandell Fox."

Is Not A Sucker.

The extravagance of some people is truly appalling. A wealthy publishing corporation proposes trading its fifty-cent a year magazine for seven dollars' worth of advertising. Such generosity doesn't get 'em anywhere with the Bulletin.—Mayville Bulletin.

PAINT LICK.

The village of Paint Lick was visited Tuesday night by the greatest flood that ever occurred in its history. Our oldest citizens tell us of a flood that occurred on July 5, 1897, that was likely greater, but this was before there was a village here. This place was built up since 1838, when the L. & N. railroad was built through this section. There was a flood in 1844 and in 1882 and 1884, but none of these did the damage to the town the present one did. The flood of Tuesday washed out the county iron bridge that cost the two counties about $3,000, and it now lies torn from its base, one-half near its site and the other away down the creek in all sorts of shape. Half of the structure may be used again. The railroad bridge above the town extends down with broad iron sides to such an extent as to throw the current over on the Garrard side. This caused the water to overflow the business portion of the town and residences. The first to suffer loss was Burnam & Rucker's lumber yard. The lumber was scattered all over the town, some washing entirely away. This firm also lost a car-load of cement in their warehouse. The house of George Conn was flooded to the depth of four feet. The family had to wade out of the water waist deep.

The merchants that suffered most of any was the firm of Fish & Hammond, whose loss was about $2,000. The water rose three or four feet in their store and the goods down on the floor were damaged and the clothing hanging on racks, was also greatly damaged.

Tramway & Woods' store was flooded to the depth of six inches or a foot and their loss will reach about $500.

The flood entered the drug store of J. M. Metcalf and the Peoples' bank, but did little damage. The residences near the stream and on low ground suffered severely. Mrs. A. H. Ely's house was flooded almost to the second story. The family had to wade out to save their lives. The residence of Guy Rice was covered with water to the depth of a foot or more and the contents of the basement were ruined. His lively stable did not escape the high waters. A tenant house below the Rice house, occupied by Jim Holman, his wife and seven children. They, to escape the rising water, went up to the second story, but the house seemed likely to be swept away at any moment. Dr. W. I. Carman, U. M. Burgess, G. Metcalf, the heroes of the occasion, tied a rope to a tree near an upper window and held the other end near the railroad track. Then holding to the rope, they swam to the house, put the frightened children on their backs and in their arms and brought them safely to shore. Dr. Carman suffered from cramp, which endangered his life for awhile. But he was a hero, for all that and did not want to give up. Ott Hammack said he could not swim good, but held the lantern for the rescuers to do their heroic work in saving the perishing.

Polly Thomas' house on the Madison side, a log cabin, was swept away with all its contents. The family barely escaped with their lives.

The railroad track on the Garrard side was washed out and delayed the trains for many hours. Quite a number of citizens from both sides came to view the havoc the flood had wrought. We hope the two county judges will meet at once and have our iron bridge replaced as soon as possible. Our school closed three days because of the accident to the bridge and high waters.

Prof. G. L. Waterbury was out with his camera making pictures of the flood wreckage, etc., in and around the village.

Poor Roads Indicted.

A writer in Farm and Fireside declares that only 18,000,000 out of the 25,000,000 children of the United States go to school. This leaves 7,000,000 children without the advantage of the education that we boast is free to all.

Half of these 7,000,000 children who cannot go to school live in the country, and the principal reason they cannot secure an education is "bad roads." That is the worst indictment yet made against the poor roads of this country. The school are there, the teachers are employed and yet 3,500,000 children cannot secure that most important thing of all—an education.

"Many children," says the Magazine writer, "are killed each year walking on the railroad tracks to school. Why? They have no roads to walk on."

"Many children each year have no school to go to. Why? The roads are so bad there is no profit in farming, no money for schools, no progress, no growth, no ambition."

"Hundreds of thousands of children yearly have to go with a little schooling, a little part of a term at school—why? Because father needs their help on the farm—he isn't making money enough to pay his children's time for school days, because he has to pay so much for hauling his crops to market he has no profit left for extra hired help."

We have a few sets of pure aluminum wire left. It is free. D. B. McKinney.

Ready For Emergency.

A commercial traveler at a railroad station in one of our Southern towns included in his order for breakfast two boiled eggs. The old darkey who served him brought him three.

"Uncle," said the traveling man, "why in the world did you bring me three boiled eggs? I only ordered two."

"Yes, sir," said the old darkey, bowing and smiling. "I know you did or der two, sir, but I brought three, 'cause I jes' naturally felt dat one of dem eggs might fail you, sir!"

Growth Of The Telephone.

The rapid growth of the telephone is shown in the annual report of the American Telephone Company, which gives the operations of the Bell telephone system in this country. It seems but a few years since the telephone was regarded as a curiosity; its use to be indulged in only by the wealthy. Now it is regarded as an indispensable part of both business and social life. To be without a 'phone now means to be almost out of either.

During 1912 the number of telephone stations increased 825,419, ranging from a total up to 7,526,071 in 70,000 cities, towns and hamlets. How account of them is kept is a wonder, but it is stated that there were nearly eight and a half billion conversations over the American during the year, a number almost inconceivable, and proving the general use into which the telephone has come. There are 5,500 more telephone stations than postoffices, and nearly 1,000 more than the number of railroad stations in this country.

The United States is a greater user of telephones than any other country, having a traffic larger by three-fifths than all Europe, which seems to prefer the slow post, which is used more than twice as much as in this country.

From the very short lines of a decade or so ago, the telephone now stretches across the continent, and conversations can be held from the Atlantic to the Pacific. It does not now seem possible ever to have done business without the telephone, which has also added greatly to the social life both in the town and in the country. The luxury of yesterday is the necessity of today, and most people would now give up almost anything else if it were necessary to the keeping of the telephone.—W. P. Walton in Lexington Herald.

The Secret of Honest Values

A number of years ago, in looking over business conditions, we came to the conclusion that our greatest asset was not our stock in trade or cash in the bank, but our customers' good will, our reputation for good values and square dealing. We determined to make the name "Cldham" stand as a synonym for "QUALITY"—to stand back of our goods and to see that the goods we sold were right. In studying our sources of supply, we found that some makers did business that way too; and some did not. But the ones we could rely on were the ones who put their NAMES in their goods and said always "These are ours, we made them, they're right and we will stand behind them."

State University News.

(By G. C. Wilson.)

The Dramatic Club of State University, which gave its first performance of "Lost Paradise" at the Lexington Opera House March 11, will give another performance at Louisville Friday, Mar. 28. The cast, selected from the best material in the University, gave a splendid performance here to a large crowd. It is expected that they will be well supported in Louisville.

State will have a dual track meet with Vanderbilt some time in May. Arrangements have been made and it will be one of the biggest events of the season. State usually has some mighty strong men.

The base ball outlook at present looks a little gloomy. State has a deficiency in batteries. The pitchers as yet are not showing such good form. Jim Parks, of Richmond, last year's twirler, is not allowed to play. Everybody will miss "Jimmy" on the mound. After a little practice, the blue and white hope to turn out a winning team. Dr. Tigert, director of athletics, has not yet secured an assistant coach, but hopes to do so within a few days. Some big games have been scheduled, including Michigan, Marshall, Western Reserve, Miami University, Hawaii College.

"Pittsburgh Perfect" Fence

Save Money on your Fencing by Putting up the Style Made to Meet your Requirements

It's downright foolish to buy light chicken wire to put around your bull pasture—and you know it. But some people do it because they don't think beyond the price-tag on the roll of fence—at least not until they've had to patch the chicken wire a dozen times or so where that bull went through. Then they put up a brand new stock fence. There's no economy in that kind of fence-buying. The right fence in the first place costs less. Our free catalogue tells how to buy fencing economically, effectively, wisely. Get it today and save money. Every Rod Guaranteed

$50,000 A YEAR SQUANDERED???

"Teachers to Teach Teachers to Teach" Needed Today.

HEARD AT COUNTRY STORE.

Two Old Times Express Their Views on Up to Date Educational Methods and Expenses of State Normal School. "Old Fashioned" Training No Longer "Good Enough."

"Say, did you ever notice how easy it is to spend the state's money? That school, the one they call the normal school, uses about $50,000 a year, I hear. That $50,000 is for just the normal school in the end of the state school. 'Mighty different when we were boys, Bill. We didn't have to have teachers to teach teachers to teach.' The two old codgers in front of the country store shook their heads sadly over the follies and extravagance of the present day. A young man who had been industriously whittling a stick and listening attentively at the same time laughed, and then asked, 'How much of the $50,000 does this country pay?'

"I dunno," answered one of the men. "Well, I do," snapped the youth. "A little less than $700, that's all." "Well, what do we get back for it?" asked the other, looking at the state for what money they get out of it. "You get a number of trained teachers, and so do the other counties in the state."

"We don't need 'em. The ol' fashioned kind are good enough." "Hold on a moment! Think! When you men were boys a bright youngster could go into any doctor's office for a couple of years, then hang out his shingle and practice medicine. He did the best he could, but you wouldn't think of having that sort of physician for your family today."

"I'd like to know what that's got to do with teaching school." "Just this—that your ideas about school and teaching are about fifty years behind the times. If you must have a trained man to look after your child's body you certainly must have a trained man or woman to look after the child's mind."

"I get mighty tired of you youngsters with all your newfangled ideas for spending money. I tell you what, you're tryin' to do things too fast." "There," snapped the young man again. "I told you you didn't stop to think. Two years ago in front of this very store I heard both of you cussin' the Boys' Corn Club movement. You said that nobody could possibly grow 100 bushels of corn on an acre of land in this neighborhood or in the state of Kentucky for that matter."

"In this state during the past summer fifty-six boys, boys in the country schools, boys yet under eighteen, grew 100 bushels or much better. Do you two men know that this movement has been handled by the very school you are fussing about? Four thousand boys in this state grew an acre of corn apiece in the Boys' Corn Club contest. I'd be willing to bet that each one of the 4,000 earned $10 more than he would have earned if there hadn't been any Boys' Corn Clubs in the state. wouldn't he?"

"Well, then, 4,000 boys earning $10 each makes $40,000 of that $50,000 the state is spending on that school, don't it? Seems to me as if it was a rather good investment for the state if it does happen to be newfangled."
